"DO NOT CLING TO SHALLOWS"

SAYS REV. SNODGRASS IN COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS.

HONOR RUTH HUGHES

She Wins Two Scholarships for High Averages—C. C. Hellmers Presents Diplomas To Class.

"Leave the shallows and launch out into the deep," was the message given to the graduates of the Maryville High School in the commencement address given by the Rev. R. E. Snodgrass of the Christian Church last night at the high school auditorium.

Miss Ruth Hughes, mid-year graduate, was awarded the two scholarships for the highest average during the four years of school. The scholarships are from the Chillicothe Business College and the University of Missouri.

Marvin Epperson, president of the senior class, presented the school $100 to be used an endowment fund for the purchasing of a new curtain for the stage in the auditorium. Donald Aley, president of the junior class, pledged that his class would add to this fund next year. The valedictory address was given by Miss Dorothy McCord. Miss McCord had an average of 96 plus during her four years in school.

The 1925 graduating class was presented to the Board of Education by L. L. St. Clair, principal. The diplomas were awarded by C. C. Hellmers, acting on behalf of the Board of Education.

The Reverend Mr. Snodgrass said in part:

"Jesus never spoke a more practical word to his disciples than when He commanded them to "Launch out into the deep." Their great success in building the Kingdom of God was due to the fact that they abided in this ever needed exhortation. All of us are inclined to cling to the shallows, whilst we should be moving out into the deep waters.

"This need reaches out into every nook and cranny of life's activities. We need to launch out into our work, no matter of what kind it be. No greater compliment was ever paid Theodore Roosevelt than when it was said of him, He lived his life to the hilt. We fish in too shallow waters. Few men know their businesses. Few men are making the most of their professions. Very few of us are getting out of our religion what we should. The physician tells us that only a few of our lung cells are working to their maximum capacity. What is true of lungs, is true of hands and of brains. Six cylinder machines, only one cylinder is in commission.

"As in work so it is in our play. We are not able to lose ourselves either in our work or in our play. Only one-tenth of us gets into the game. Imagine a football team trying to win a championship when each player was only putting about one-tenth of his best efforts into the game. And yet so it is in life. Going on a vacation we take our work with us, like these maddeningly industrious women who flash their knitting needles in the music room or in the lecture room. Maybe it is the very consciousness that we have not worked hard enough at our work that nags us and will not let us play when play hours come. Oh, yes, we are all too familiar with the shallow waters; let us go out and possess the deep.

"It is no easy matter to launch out into the deep. In order to do it, it becomes necessary that we choose wisely our life's work. We must be thoroughly committed to the task we undertake, else we cannot put our best into it.

"We have so many failures here. So many mis-fits in the professions. We have men in pulpits making sermons who ought to be in blacksmith shops making plow shares; we have those in law who instead of ruining the cases of their clients ought to be pounding shoe lasts, and doctors who are the worst hindrance to their patients convalescence, and artists trying to paint landscapes who ought to be remodeling constitutions, or pounding shoe lasts who ought to be transforming literatures.

"Be sure you choose as your life's work that which will challenge the best that is in you. There can hardly be a greater tragedy than to have some young man or woman thoroughly prepared for some great task, be content

NO STATE AID FOR SCHOOLS

EIGHT CONSOLIDATED DISTRICTS MUST RAISE ALL MONEY.

ARKOE TO GET $1,200

Consolidated Districts Are Hard Hit Because Levy Was Set Before New Law Was Known.

Not a consolidated school district in the county will receive state aid this year, is the opinion of Leslie G. Somerville, county superintendent of schools. Mr. Somerville explains the situation arising because of the school law as revised by the last General Assembly, which specifies that the money to be received by consolidated schools receiving aid from the state will be based on the school enumeration and the average daily attendance. Heretofore, it has been based on the number of square miles in the district.

Out of the eight consolidated districts in the county none can comply under the law to receive state aid. This will be a big handicap as the school levy in each district is already set for the year, and it would take a special election to raise the levy. The Wilcox consolidated district, which used to receive about $750, will be shut out entirely from state aid, and it may be barely possible that the high school course there will have to be discontinued.

As for the other districts they have enough surplus in reserve to draw from this year to make up the deficit that was expected from the state. The schools will not be hit so hard this year because of the surplus but next year it will necessitate a raising of the levy in order to keep up the present school standards.

A communication has been received by Fred W. Smith, county clerk, from state superintendent of schools, Charles A. Lee, in regard to applications for state aid and also for schools organized under the Job Law.

There is only one school in the county organized under the Job Law, Mr. Somerville said, and this is Arkoe. This year Arkoe will receive $1,200. The application for this money has already been approved by the state department, according to the county superintendent.

Because of the fact that the school levies were set in the county before it was known that the consolidated districts would not receive state aid, there is a possibility that some school district may contest the revised law as passed by the last General Assembly, and which takes effect July 15. There is a chance that if this is taken up the state law might be held up or beaten in the courts, anyway for the next two years, Mr. Somerville surmised.

1,851 RECEIVE TREATMENTS

ANTI-DIPHTHERIA CAMPAIGN COMES TO CLOSE.

50 BIRTHS; 30 DEATHS

During the mouth of April in the prevention campaign against diphtheria in the county, conducted by the staff of the County Health Department, under the direction of Dr. C. P. Fryer, county health officer, 1,851 patients were administered the toxin-antitoxin serum.

It was a county-wide drive in which the members of the staff had a regular schedule for visiting schools and community centers once each week for three consecutive weeks, at which times children and adults received the injections. On Saturdays the office of the County Health Department was open to all those who might go there for the treatments.

Before the completion of the campaign it was about six weeks before the entire 1,851 received the three injections, which is considered 97 per cent preventive against diphtheria. The campaign ended the early part of this month.

In the report of the activities of the Health Department for the month of April, Dr. Fryer states that births reported to his office from the official registrars from each district and thirty deaths. The number of births for April, 1925, is in excess of the number for the same period last year by eight, while deaths for the period of April this year increased seven over April of last year.

Of communicable diseases reported to the Health Office there were no deaths resulting, but the number of cases in each instance are:

Scarlet fever, two; mumps, two; diphtheria, seven; chicken pox, one. No cases of pneumonia were noted, while last year for the same period two deaths resulted from pneumonia.

Of the sanitary inspections given by the staff members of the department there were twelve of private premises and nineteen at public places, as schools, churches, stores, etc. Fifteen visits were made to acute communicable disease suspects and twelve were quarantined. Of the child hygiene division Dr. Fryer reports that 250 visited his office for consultation. And of laboratory examinations two were given, bringing the total for the year up to ten.

Seventy-five pupils were inspected for nutritional purposes, ten inspected for prevention of spread of contagious disease; one children's clinic held; and two chest clinics held.

Summary for the Month.

"The usual regulations of the State Board of Health in regard to quarantine and investigation visits to cases and suspects were fulfilled during the last month.

"One class in Modified Home Nursing was conducted with an attendance of fourteen members and a series of lessons having been completed for the Rockford Community Club, a Children's Clinic was held on April 2, at which time twenty-three children and ten adults were present.

"On April 4 and April 18 chest clinics were conducted at the office by Dr. E. M. Shores of St. Joseph and at these appointments ten adults were given complete physical examinations.

"The greater part of the time during the last month was devoted to the administration of toxin-antitoxin for prevention of diphtheria. The schedule include s all towns of the county and a few additional school districts which were employed as community centers, were apportioned to all days of the week with the exception of Saturday. At this time toxin-antitoxin was administered to those visiting the county health office. We are pleased to report that we received hearty co-operation from all children, parents and teachers of the county in this campaign and are able to report 1,851 patients having received complete treatment.

"Dr. C. P. Fryer,
"County Health Officer."

NEXT WEEK IN MISSOURI HISTORY

Floyd C. Shoemaker, Secretary.

May 17-23.

The birthdays of two Missouri organizations fall in this week. They are May 17th, founders day in 1867 of the Missouri Press Association, and May 21st, in 1856, of the Missouri State Teachers Association. Their birthplace was St. Louis. No political organization, no state or private institution, no individual leader or group, has done greater or more lasting work for Missouri than these two voluntary societies. They have raised cultural standards. They have forwarded the education of man and child. They have laid broader and firmer foundations for democracy. It is almost a truism that our nation could not exist as a republic without press and schoolroom. The elevation of both has been the fruits of the Missouri Press and Missouri Teachers Associations.

The beginnings of these societies were almost inappreciable. Only 100 persons formed the nucleus of the Missouri State Teachers Association which today has 20,260 members. The first president was Mr. William T. Luckey. Missouri's public educational system was just beginning to have a cerditable existence. There was only one high school in the state, founded in St. Louis three years before. The University of Missouri founded at Columbia in 1839, had not yet received a dollar of state support. No state normal appeared until a decade and a half later (1870). Less than a third of Missouri's 300,000 school children were in the public schools and in 1856 only $32,571 was spent to build and repair Missouri's school houses.

Many persons still looked askance at public education. Some thought it common, fit only for the poor. Others regarded it as too expensive, a burden on the tax-paper. Still, the state found reasons to contract a debt of $25,000,000 to aid in the building of railroads. Certainly there was need for organizing a Missouri State Teachers Association in 1856.

Equally small was the first meeting of the Missouri Press Association, called at that time the Editors and Publishers Association of Missouri. Invitations to Missouri's 148 editors were accepted by only 38. These thirty-eight founders adopted a constitution and elected J. W. Barrett, editor of the Canton Press, president. He was twice re-elected and laid the foundations for later work.

And there was pressing need for an editorial association. City and country editors were strangers. Their mutual regard was a mixture of contempt and suspicion. There was no uniformity of rates. Subscriptions were paid in pork and cord-wood in one town, in cash in another. Advertising was neither elevated nor standardized. Papers differed in size from three foot blanket sheets to fifteen inch foolscap. Even the editors did not form a profession or regard themselves as members of one. Personal ethics were as varied as subscription rates. Personal abuse in public print was met with, and a "fighting editor" was one who used his fists. There was need for a Missouri Press Association in 1867.

The good old times of the '50s and '60s, with the $15, even $10, a month teacher in a three to six month school have passed. The "fighting editor" in his unprofitable business has passed. Some giants were produced, men who gave much and received little. But the conditions, the lack of dignity and respect, were not favorable to the majority. The country editor and the district school teacher were martyrs engaged in occupations profitless to self without halo of sanctity or glory of reward. History alone continues their existence in the old files of the press. No finer examples of the fruits of co-operation, exchange of ideas, and personal association, can be found than in the work of the Missouri Press and Missouri Teachers associations during their lives of three score and ten.

Legionnaires Get 100 Pounds Fish Out of Nodaway

Will Be Used for the Legion Fish Fry Tonight—Roads Reported As Passable.

Six men fished last night, during the storm, lightning, rain, and whatnot, on the Nodaway River, about nine miles southwest of here last night, adjoining the Linville farm, and one man of the party, who came to the city this morning, reported that more than 100 pounds of fish were brought into camp.

This party was the advance guard of the American Legion, which was sent out yesterday to scout for a camping site and get a sufficient supply of fish for a fish fry at mid-night tonight for the picnic of the James Edward Gray Post No. 100 of the American Legion.

Those who returned this morning report that the roads are not so bad that they are not impassable and guarantee the Legionnaires that go out this afternoon and evening for the big event, a big fish fry is in store. Advice is also given that plenty blankets should be taken along.

Those in the fishing party were: Ben Chandler, Leonard Gray, Dave Seckington, Henry Buhler, Ed Gray and Francis Cummins.

Fifty Years Ago

Sim Gillis left for St. Joseph last Tuesday morning to superintend the building of a large grain elevator at that place for Waterman & Nash of Savannah. They propose erecting an elevator there that will have the capacity to contain 150,000 bushels of grain.

We had the pleasure of a little ride out west of Maryville last Sunday afternoon and were agreeably surprised at the extent of the improvements that are being made along the line of the road we traveled. We noticed several farms that had been fenced in and partly broken already this spring and upon every hand we could discover new fences, breaking, setting out apple trees and other substantial and valuable improvements.

Curg Miller has been putting in a large field of corn this spring having planted some 100 acres. Nearly all of this corn he planted with a lister. He thinks the lister a success and a great labor-saving machine.

Two races will take place at the fairgrounds on next Saturday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock for a purse of $50.

The Baptist Church in White Cloud township will be dedicated to the worship of God on next Sunday, the 16th inst. Elder Huntley will preach the dedicatory sermon. Other ministers will be present.

William Perdew, Esq., of White Cloud township recently sold to John S. Leighty ninety-five head of cattle and 156 head of hogs and delivered them at the depot in this city on last Saturday. Ninety-one of the cattle averaged 1,468 pounds. He got 6¼ cents for the cattle and 6 cents for the hogs and the amount he realized from the sale of both was $10,791.78. Who will say that Nodaway County is not a good stock county and that energy and enterprise are not rewarded here.

We saw quite a curiosity the other day in the wagon of William Duncan in the streets of Maryville. It was a dead pelican of a white color that was killed by John Duncan, Esq., of White Cloud township the 6th of last April. The bird was flying over Mr. Duncan's farm with a large flock of some 500 other pelicans when he winged it with his shotgun and it fell to the ground dead. This pelican measured nine feet from tip to tip of wing and had an enormous bill to the lower edge of which was attached a large pouch capable of holding several quarts of water.

The Constitutional Convention at Jefferson City is now getting in a fair way to get earnestly at the work assigned it by the sovereign people of Missouri.

A new front, similar to that of A. Oppenheimer's brick, is now being placed in the first story of the business house occupied by Snapp and George. We are informed that the upper story of this brick and also that of Stinson and Orear will be divided up into offices, being reached by a stairway from the front.

The well in the public square has been completely cleaned out by Jack Dunlap, and a pump placed therein. There is now some five feet of water in this well.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

Mrs. Ida McKenzie recently finished taking the enumeration of school children in Maryville. The list shows that there are 1,232 children here of school age, 1,190 being white young people and forty-two colored.

After June 1 the Maryville Conservatory of Music and School of Expression will be at home in their new quarters in the Forsyth building on the corner of Third and Buchanan streets. As will be seen from the name, the Conservatory has severed connection with the Seminary, which institution has likely seen its last year, especially if the Northwest Missouri Normal should be located here. The new faculty will consist of: Prof. Perry Oliver Landon, director and instructor in piano school; Prof. Martin Meissler, assistant director; Mrs. Homer Martien Cook, instructor in school of vocal music; Mrs. Perry Oliver Landon, instructor in modern languages; and Rev. Homer Martien Cook, instructor in school of expression.

D. R. Eversole and son, R. W. Eversole, contemplate erecting fine new residences on the Eversole lots at the corner of Thompson and Buchanan streets.

Harry Snyder, formerly of Maryville, but now of Albany, is captain of the company of Missouri National Guards which was recently organized.

Good Citizenship Is Obedience Of All Laws, Great And Small

The following essay on "Four-fold Life of Good Citizenship," written by Miss Iola Hankins, a freshman in the Burlington Junction High School, won first place and the prize of $25 in the high school division of the county-wide essay contest recently conducted by the Democrat-Forum.

What is good citizenship? This question often arises before the people of any nation and it can be answered thus: Good citizenship is the obedience of all laws both great and small. To be a citizen of a country a person must be a member of that country's government, but to be a good citizen, he must be a worthy and honest member of the government. A good citizen of any country should live a four-fold life, that is he must have four fundamental kinds of training, namely, physical, moral, mental and spiritual.

Before any person can be a good citizen he must have good health. It is the right of every child to have a good, healthy body. This may be acquired thru observing and obeying all health rules and regulations.

No nation is a good nation if the people are not physically able to support themselves. If a person hasn't good health he has no ambition, and it takes ambition to earn a livelihood and be a good citizen. Strong men and women are the "pride and joy" of any nation.

Munsterburg said, "A well-behaved mind grows in a well-treated body. It is true that far-seeing hygiene can prevent more crime than any law." Good citizens do not commit crime but of course every country has their law-breakers and usually these persons are the ones who care nothing for their bodies or anything eles upon which good citizenship is based. If the people of America today would think more about the care of their bodies physically, and not so much about entertainment of the wrong kind there would not be so much crime. When we have leisure time, we must be able to use it worthily. By using part of it for recreation, the minds of those who commit crime would be away from evil thoughts, while their bodies would be getting stronger and as a result there would be better citizens in our country.

Moral training is the second fundamental. The citizen gets the best of this training in the family and home life. "From whatever angle we approach society, the family is the ultimate unit and basis. The whole fabric of civilization, whether considered from an economic, a social or a political standpoint, depends upon the integrity of the family and the wholesomeness of home-life centering about the father, mother, and children. The home is the nursery of our fundamental institutions; it is the origin of our physical and mental inheritances; it is the center of our training for private and public life; it is the moral and religious fount which nourishes the ideals and beliefs which fashions our lives and moulds our character. A nation built upon decaying homes is bound to perish; a nation composed of normal prosperous families is in a good way to perpetuate itself. It is of the very greatest importance, therefore, that we inquife into the character and tendencies of the American family" (I. Williamson's "Problems of American Democracy," Chapter XXIII. Page 216).

The young citizen gets this training from his parents and in later life, when he is able to choose for himself between right and wrong, he must have a high moral ideal and live up to it. (The high moral ideal is to live a pure life; a clean life; and an honest life). Kipling says:

"If you can fill the unrelenting minute
With sixty second's worth of distance run.
Yours is the earth and everything that's in it;
And, what is more you'll be a Man my, son."

Every nation needs high morals to be able to exist, because if it is not supported by people of a high moral standard it cannot be physically strong. The Romans became morally corrupt, therefore, lost their strength and power to rule.

An efficient citizen of a nation is educated. Dionysius says: "The foundation of the government is the education of its youth." Education makes a person broad-minded, gives him initiative and prepares him to make a living for himself. If any child is denied an educaton and is permitted to grow up without the knowledge that prepares it for the duties and responsibilities of citizenship and for making an honest living by some intelligent, useful occupaton, then neither God nor man can make up for the loss, because the child has grown up, both ignorant and ill-bred and is a detriment to the nation.

A government such as ours can not exist except for the education of its citizens. For example, when Russia overthrew their monarchial form of government the country practically went to ruin because of the lack of education. There is no reason for the children of the United States going without an education, because in our country we have free public schools for the good of our young people. Anyway, in any country, at any cost, an education is worth while.

People of every country, if country wishes to be successful, must also have spiritual training, in the first place in order to live a moral life one must live a spiritual life, for the reason that the best moral code we have is the religious morals of the teachings of Christ.

A good citizen is religious. No naton has long-lived that forgot God. The Jews were a God-fearing people, but when they became corrupted they lost their power and soon no Jewish nation remained. Even in the late World War, the Kaiser considered himself equal to God and always spoke of the things that "Me and Got" would do. As we all know, Germany was defeated, but the Kaiser fled from the country. Germany is once more rising to her former position, yet she failed because she forgot her Creator.

"Religion is the saving salt of humanity," says Rowe. This statement alone makes it true that every good citizen must have his spiritual training along with the other three important trainings in his life, to make him a perfect, "well balanced" citizen.

Part Andrew-Nodaway Drainage Bonds Paid

Jacob Nelson, Treasurer, Explains the Situation to the Guilford Times, This Week.

(Guilford Times)

Guilford, Mo., May 12, 1925.

Mr. W. B. Torrance,
Guilford, Mo.

Dear sir:—I thought a few lines in regard to the Drainage business might be of some interest to some of the readers of your paper.

On January 24th, 1923 the Andrew-Nodaway Drainage District sold one hundred and ninety-seven thousand dollars worth of Bonds, which bonds draw 5 per cent interest. On February 1st, 1924 there was $5,500 due which has been paid on February 1st, 1925 there was $6,000 due which has also been paid and the interest has been kept paid on all of the Bonds. In addition to the amount that was due, all the bonds becoming due in 1943 which was $15,500 has been paid, also $6,000 of the $15,000 due in 1942, has been paid.

The Drainage board sold more bonds than was needed to do the work and it being put in the contract that if there was any money left after the work was complete they could pay off the Bonds becoming due in 1942 and 1943, or any part of them. The Board of Supervisors met last year and figured out that they would have more money from the sale of bonds than they would need to complete the new river channel so they instructed me to pay the above mentioned bonds which I have done and have cancelled same and have them in my possession.

Yours respectfully,

Jacob Nelson, Treasurer,
Andrew-Nodaway Drainage District.

St. Joseph, Missouri, December 6, 1924.

This certifies that I have been a sufferer for several years from bleeding piles, both internal and external. No one will ever know the agony and misery that I went through. Nothing did me any good. On November 4th, 1924, I consulted Dr. Charles William Jacobs, the specialist, in the Corby Bldg., but with little hope of a cure.

After a thorough and painstaking examination, together with an analysis of body fluids, Doctor Jacobs positively promised to cure me—without knife, caustic, electricity or a ligature—and that the treatment would be practically painless WHICH IT WAS.

Now at the expiration of five (5) weeks I am practicaly cured. One external tumor was larger than a hen egg and very bloody; the pain was excruciating, almost unbearable. This tumor has disappeared now without cutting, or any pain to speak of.

The last four weeks of treatment I did not lose a single hour from my duties as Fireman for the Saint Joseph Electric Light and Power Company. I and others I know heartily recommend Dr. Jacobs to sufferers.

MIRACULOUS CURE OF ASTHMA

St. Joseph, Missouri, December 8, 1924.

I have been a sufferer from CHRONIC ASTHMA for about eight years. My sufferings and apprehension of a sudden death were indescribable. I had smothering spells, deep seated pains in my chest, AWFUL HEART THROBBINGS, HORRIBLE DREAMS. Often when walking the streets I WAS COMPELLED TO STOP AND SIT DOWN UPON THE CURBSTONE to keep from falling down. All the years of suffering I grew worse. I got no permanent or lasting relief although I took treatment from the great Dispensary at Buffalo, New York. I tried many patent medicines and many prescriptions from friends. Three weeks ago I consulted Doctor Charles Jacobs, the Specialist in the Corby building and placed myself under his treatment. The results have been almost miraculous, and although past SIXTY years of age, I feel a RELIEF such as I have NOT experienced in many years. The treatment and medicines were pleasant and painless. I cheerfuly recommend Dr. Jacobs to sufferers.

TO THE LADIES

An extended enumeration of all the diseases to which they are subject would fill a volume. If you have unaccountable pains in the top and back of the head or nervous twitching, irregular, sharp or dull pains in the back, abdomen or groin, unnatural heart throbs, or doubt, melancholy, apprehension, tendency to look on the dark side of life, or if you are irritable with little cause, there is great danger in neglecting yourself. The superintendent of Kankakee Insane Asylum informed Dr. Jacobs that one-third of the insane women there were brought into this state of mind by female weakness or sex derangement.

DR. CHARLES WILLIAM JACOBS, Expert Specialist

Suite 407 Corby Bldg., Fifth and Felix Sts., ST. JOSEPH, MO.

Dr. Jacobs wll be at the Linville Hotel in Maryville, Tuesday, May 19, from ten a. m. to 6 p. m. Remember, consultation and examinaton absolutely FREE. Patients are advised to come early to avoid the rush.

Herewith are Additional Testimonials of Dr. Jacobs' Infallible Skill:

St. Joseph, Mo.,
January 27, 1922.

I have been a sufferer from this terrible disease, ASTHMA, for ELEVEN YEARS. I was unsuccessfully treated by three doctors in St. Paul, by two in Omaha, Neb., by one asthma specialist in Kansas City, Mo., but got no relief, even temporarily, from any of them. Life was a burden. Work was a torture, but I had to work. I dreaded to go to bed nights because I would cough and smother and my head grew full and dizzy. On December 1, after reading the advertisement of Dr. Charles Wm. Jacobs, I consulted him and at once placed myself under his care. I improved within three days and now am happy because I cough and smother no more and the dizziness is all gone. I now take a new interest in life and feel deeply obligated to Doctor Jacobs for what he has done for me.

St. Joseph, Mo.,

I have suffered from diabetes for more than a year. I passed four or five gallons of water daily. Grew steadily worse. No medicine or doctors helped me. My body and legs swelled to alarming proportions. I felt that I was dying if I didn't get relief. February 9, 1922, I consulted Dr. Charles Wm. Jacobs, the specialist, but had little hope of a cure. After thoroughly examining me, making an analysis of all body fluids, Dr. Jacobs said, "As sure as God reigns in heaven I can cure you." I placed myself under his treatment and improvement started. I now only pass a half gallon of water in 24 hours. The swelling is all gone. The right leg terribly swollen, I feared would burst. The swellings are all gone now and I feel and know that Dr. Jacobs has saved my life. My wife and self feel so grateful.

I applied to Dr. Jacobs, the specialist, suffering from almost complete deafness. I was unable to hear unless people spoke exceptionally loud to me. I certainly feel that Dr. Jacobs' cure in my case is almost miraculous.

Skies Break Clear for Kentucky Derby

Churchill Downs, Louisville, May 16.—Just as in the third act climax where the leering villian is foiled and the lovers re-united, with a drooping wisteria in the background, a stormy sky suddenly broke out in a bright smile this afternoon, assuring a fast track for the fifty-first running of the Kentucky Derby.

Twenty five of turfdom's bluebloods formed the original entry but shortly before post time three of them were consigned to the barn, notable among these was the Whitney colt, Chantey.

The remaining early scratches were Reputation and Elsass.

The passing of Chantey sent a riple of disappointment through the crowd of 75,000. It was a typical Derby crowd, filling the eye with its magnitude and pleasing with its color.

"DO NOT CLING TO SHADOWS"

Go Where Duty Calls.

"I have been reading recently the life of Robert E. Lee. He said, "Duty is the sublimest word in our language," and this he lived consistently all through his career. When war became inevitable he faced a great struggle; that of deciding the momentous question as to the side he should choose in the great conflict. Duty as he saw it and duty alone determined his choice. No wonder he could put his best into that struggle.

"Ancestral conditions and Environments hinder us, from launching out into the deep. But I want to discharge you from all responsibility for most of your environments. You are not responsible for your parentage or your grand-parentage. You are not responsible for any of the cranks that may have lived in your ancestral line, and who a hundred years before you were born may have lived a style of life that more or less affects you today. You are not entirely responsible for the fact that your temperament is sanguine or melancholic or bilious or nervous.

Custom Restrains Us.

"There is power in habit. It is hard for us to get away from the pull of the familiar. The traditions and habits of the years hold us back. In the Orient you look upon many strange things, among them peasants riding on donkeys or camels along country roads in peace times, toting a long gun. The gun is old and rusty, and nine times out of ten it is unloaded. But why carry it? Because they always have carried it. Because their fathers carried it and their father's fathers carried it. It is instinctively the thing to do. It is habit, custom. In school, in business, in church we are adhering to practices whose only sanctions are in custom, habit, use. It is no easy thing to break these habits of years.

Experience Hinders.

"The fisherman following Jesus reasoned that deep waters were unlikely places for net casting. In our daily living, reason flatly says no when faith says yes. All the unlikely and impossible things of earth have not been done through reason alone, but through faith. Could the religion of Jesus supplant Mosaism? Reason said no, faith said yes. Would the cross of Jesus ever be lifted over the city of Rome? Reason said no, faith said yes. Would the disciples of Jesus go further than the armies of Caesar? Reason said no, faith said yes.

"I do not suppose there is a business man in town that could reason his way to success. He moved on by faith. You graduates cannot reason your way through college, but faith will put you there.

The Way of Happiness.

"Phillips Brooks used to talk about the fun he got out of his ministry. He literally lost himself in his ministry. So long as we keep tight hold of ourselves, and refuse to 'let go,' are only half-mindedly and half-heartedly engaged in our tasks, so long do we miss the "fun."

"The happy workers are the hard workers. Grasp the hoe handle lightly, tenderly, you have only blisters as a reward. But grasp the hoe handle and go after the beans with furious abandon until the hands are caloused and the sweat starts and hoeing beans becomes a pleasant and rewarding exercise.

"It is so with all the exercise of the soul. No wonder a lot of people get so little happiness out of their religion, and out of their business. They have never gotten beyond the blister stage.

Way of Accomplishment.

"Dr. Fosdick has recently revived a most surprising array of statistics, dealing with failures in the business world, that have been compiled by insurance actuaries.

"One hundred men, 25 years of age start out in business. When they are 65 years of age, they fall into the following classes: Thirty-six dead, fifty-four financially dependent on family or charity, nine are making a living, one rich. The tragedy is in the fact that fifty-four are dependent upon relatives or public charity. Why these failures? I don't remember Dr. Fosdick's answer but I have the notion that the largest factor is such failures is the refusal to launch out into the deep waters of knowledge and industry.

"The man who accomplishes anything in sport is a "fan." No half-way measures suffice. The man who makes large contributions to reform movements is a "crank." Precisely. A crank is what you turn things with. The Roman thought Paul was crazy. Luther was looked upon as poorly balanced. Livingston was held to be addled. Men were dead sure that Wesley was a trifle off. And why, just because they were dead certain of the way to which duty called and with self abandon they launched into the deep waters. And they were men of accomplishment.

Finish Is the Test.

"Salvation is always in the deep waters. Men of the professions, men of business have saved themselves from failure by launching out. Now and then we read of a ship going down in the mid-sea, but only now and then, whereas the tales of the sea are burdened with the disasters that have come to ships on the rocks of the shore. When the storm comes safety is not in hugging the shores, safety is in striking out into the open sea.

"As with ships so with souls. Fosdicks one hundred men had good beginnings, but only about five finished strong. Good starters and good stayers are not necessarily the same people.

"Plenty of people are equipped with efficient self starters. They are off in good shape but they peter out. They soon stick in the sand or stall on a high hill. The ultimate test is our ability to finish. In one of our federal prisons today is a man who for fifty years with unblemished reputation lived a life of honor in his own community. Then as a government servant, he went to France during the war and mishandled funds. Only that will be remembered about him. The half century of fine living is blotted out. He was not able to finish.

"It is no trite statement for me to say that a strong character is necessary to a victorious ending. There are three immortal words which express to me the qualities necessary to a good life.

"The word of General Grant at the close of the way, expressing the spirit of both North and South, was: "Let us have peace.

"General Pershing's word at the tomb of Lafayette: Lafayette, we are here.

And the word of General Foch in that critical time when the enemy was pressing closely to the French capital: They shall not pass.

Let us have Peace, the prayer of a redeemed republic.

"Prayer, gratitude, determination, three elements of character that must enter into the life of every man who would make the most out of life. So young people, with a prayer in your hearts, which expresses your reverence and love for God, with gratitude in your souls for all that your homes, your school, your church has contributed to your good, and with a determination in your hearts to make good at any cost, it will not be hard for you to "Leave the shallows and launch out into the deep."

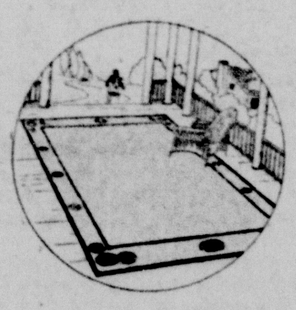
A Comfortable Summer AT HOME

Summers away or summers at home are just what you yourself make them. But sometimes we have a little suspicion that the summers at home can be more comfortable. There are books we can read, honest-to-goodness bathrooms with hot water, a garden, our own friends close by, and perhaps a swing in which to while away glorious summer evenings.

Porch Parties

Isn't it rather fun to have an afternoon bridge on the porch with tinkling glasses of lemonade for the guests to sip as they play? Little summery table covers, bright linens and pretty new bridge sets will help to make a delightfuly cool afternoon.

Ask to see our displays.



Best Grass Rugs

You will want to equip your porch with soft green or tan Fibre Rugs which won't collect the dust and sand that is daily scattered over them. And two or three of these rugs—either plain or with a pattern—will make your porch most summer like and comfortable.

The making of hooked rugs and tapestry pieces to be used in upholstering chairs, footstools, etc., has become very popular, and we shall be glad to supply the materials and give instruction in the making of these articles.

Things to Do

And for lovely summer afternoons a bit of linen and a needle will be a delightful way to spend the hours before twilight. We have so many, many interesting things to show the home sewer that we must ask you to come and ask to see them all.

Await Conference With P. P. Young

Cemetery Association Not Certain Whether Roads to Cemeteries Will Be Graveled.

The Cemetery Road Association is awaiting a conference with P. P. Young of the Young Construction Co., of St. Joseph in regard to securing gravel and the cost of graveling the roads from Maryville to the three cemeteries.

The Cemetery Road Association, made up of representatives of different organizations in the city, met last night at the Chamber of Commerce but nothing definite was decided J. P. Price, president of the Association, said today, that after the members of the Association had talked with Mr. Young, they would then know whether the roads to the Miriam, St. Marys and St. Patrick's cemeteries would be graveled.

Those who were at the meeting last night:

J. P. Price, W. D. Williams, Nick Sturm, William Doffing, M. M. Ropes, project engineer.

If sufficient gravel can be secured from the DeArmond pit, from which gravel is now procured for the state road to Wilcox, and the cost is not prohibitive, the members of the Association would be in favor of taking steps to have the roads graveled.

FIND INDIAN RELIC.

(Barnard Bulletin)

While swimming in the river's new channel near the picnic grounds Wednesday evening, Ralph Humberd and several other boys found the head of a large Indian tomahawk. The implement is of soapstone, perfectly formed and about 5 by 3 by 1 and one-half inches in size. The river-bed in which it was lying was more than twelve feet underground before the new ditch was made. Imagination only can conjecture in what forgotten age and under what circumstances some redskin had lost this axe.

MAKES PUMPING UP TIRES UNNECESSARY

H. Q. Hughes, 2512 Monroe, Chicago, has perfected a new air-tight valve cap that enables auto owners to pump up their tires once and never touch them again until tire is punctured or worn out. This doubles tire mileage. Mr. Hughes wants dealers and agents and will send samples at his own risk. Write him today.—Adv.

Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, May 16.—Grain futures had a strong finish on the Chicago board of trade today.

Wheat rallied sharply from an early dip on spirited buying inspired by fears of crop deterioration in the northwest with the return of cooler weather. No export business was reported from the seaboard.

Short covering by yesterday's sellers and new outside investment buying sent corn upward.

Oats acted heavy. Buying by cash interests boosted May a fraction. July was unchanged and September made a good gain on unfavorable growing weather.

Provisions held steady.

Law Sponsored by Rep. Job Attacked

Hearing Set for June 19 at Kansas City of Act Providing For One Stop in Car Load Shipments.

Representative William Job has received notice from the Public Service Commission that the law sponsored by him two years ago providing for one stop in transit of car load shipments of live stock, grain, grain products, seed, feed fruit, vegetables for purpose of partly unloading or to complete a load, and through rate charged from point of origin to destination, was under attack in a complaint filed by the Southwestern Milling Co., of Kansas City, Kansas. This law has been in operation for the last two years.

The milling company alleges that this law in Missouri applicable to shipments moving in interstate commerce result in preferring the shipments moving wholly in Missouri to the disadvantage of the interstate shippers and result in discrimination against interstate commerce in violation of Section 3 of the Interstate Commerce Act as amended.

The case is set for hearing in the assembly room of the Chamber of Commerce at Kansas City on June 19 at 10 a. m.

Mr. Job claims this law is reasonable and practical and has notified the heads of the agricultural organizations of the state to give their assistance in the hearing. Mr. Job says:

"It should be the desire of all farmers and shippers of farm products that such a showing be made before the Interstate Commerce Commission so that they will decide that the Missouri law is just and reasonable and that instead of removing the discrimination by declaring our law inoperative and by requiring the carriers not to observe it, they will require the carriers to publish and maintain a similar rule in conection with ther nterstate business transacted from Kansas City, Kans., The Kansas business interests have had two years to prepare and enact a similar law and should not at this time attack the Missouri law just because we have a little the best of them."
